b. The first running in two years of Scientific/Weapons Intelligence for the Operations Officer (S/WIOO) was completed on 16 December. The course was redesigned in cooperation with the Directorate of Operations Policy and Coordination Staff/Science and Technology Control Group. The focus was on several areas of particular concern. These included: the Intelligence Community Priority Collection Program; technology transfer; nuclear proliferation; Soviet aerospace programs; and nuclear terrorism. Particular attention was given to inter-Agency efforts in a number of these fields. There were two panels devoted to exploring Directorate of Operations views on collection problems related to technology transfer and nuclear proliferation. The course was well received by the students who affirmed that the five stated course objectives were achieved.

c. As part of the Defense Intelligence Agency Computer Center (DIACC) move plan, all procurement actions for the ordering of new equipment for DIA have been completed. Equipment will begin arriving at Bolling Air Force Base during the week of 4 January 1984.

e. The Agency Historian has advised the DCI of Records Management Division (RMD) concerns about the possible transfer of 3,000 cubic feet of declassified OSS material to the National Archives and Records Service. Chief, RMD wanted to be sure that the Office of General Counsel addressed the legal problems that might result from such a transfer if former OSS officers were harmed in some way because of information released to the public. He was also concerned about the possible effect that this transfer might have on current employees if they thought that information about their covert activities for the Agency might be made public during their lifetime. The Historian stated that these matters would be addressed before any transfer would occur.

✓ f. The Architectural Design Staff, Office of Logistics, prepared sketches for the installation of temporary highway barriers at the DCI Garage and Northeast and Northwest Entrances at the Headquarters Building.

g. Submissions for the FY 1985 Congressional Budget Justification Books are running at a pace comparable to the previous year's production. At this point, approximately one-third of the projected 28,000 pages have been submitted for printing. It is anticipated that there will be a slight increase in the number of color graphics used this year.

h. Four Office of Security students [redacted] recently completed the Headquarters Polygraph School and were awarded course certificates. [redacted]
